Celebrate London announces
New Year's Eve in Victoria Park

The Celebrate London committee announced its plans today for this year's free family New Year's Eve celebration in Victoria Park.

Thanks to the help of many generous sponsors, this year's high-energy lineup has something for everyone:

- 6 - 8 p.m.
  - free ice skating (weather permitting), hot chocolate, and entertainment
- 8 - 9 p.m.
  - Family favourite singer and comedian Fred Penner onstage
- 9 p.m.
  - a special children's New Year's countdown and fireworks display

At 9:15, "The Forest City Rockers" will warm up the crowd with cover versions of classic rock songs from artists such as Brian Adams, John Cougar Mellencamp and Def Leppard.

At 10:30 p.m., internationally recognized Canadian singer/songwriter Sass Jordan heats up the stage. Sass has been a presence on the Canadian airwaves for the past two decades and will entertain Londoners with her hits and new songs from her latest album Get What You Give.
At midnight Sass will help the crowd ring in the New Year, followed by an amazing fireworks display.

For many years the Celebrate London committee has come together to organize a free evening of family entertainment in downtown London. Made up of caring volunteers, Celebrate London's members are committed to ensuring the continued success of New Year's Eve celebrations in Victoria Park.

"Each year just gets better and better," says Ed Holder, Co-Chair of Celebrate London. "Thanks to the support of so many generous businesses, organizations and Londoners, we are able to keep this tradition of free family fun in downtown London alive and memorable."

With something for the entire family, Celebrate London in Victoria Park will be an incredible community event. Don't miss it!
